Juvats take off for Japan engagement

Members of the 80th Fighter Squadron “Juvats” take off in a KC-135 en route to Kadena Air Base, Japan Monday.

8th Fighter Wing Public Affairs

Deploying is a rare event at Kunsan because it's considered a forward location. But over 60 members of the 80th Fighter Squadron

"Juvats" deployed to Kadena Air Base, Okinawa, Japan Saturday to hone their warfighting skills. Their mission -- dissimilar air combat training. The Juvats will spend the next two weeks flying against F-15s from the 67th Fighter Squadron based in Japan.

Six F-16 Falcons, plus their 80th Fighter Squadron pilots, crew chiefs, 8th Maintenance Squadron maintainers, and flight doctor deployed to Kadena AB for the training TDY. "I'm looking forward to killing some Eagles. No question about that," said Capt. Norm Johnsen, 80th FS pilot, referring to the F-15 Eagles from the 67th Fighter Squadron. Nine other Juvat pilots will join Johnsen for the air training with the Eagles near Japan. Various dog-fighting scenarios will pit F-16s and F-15s against each other as practice for attacking different aircraft. "This is a good opportunity for the 80th pilots," said Johnsen. "We don't get the opportunity here to practice flying against different airframes where we have to adjust to different flying styles and techniques." The 80th FS arranged the deployment, which Johnsen said, was a challenge to coordinate, fund, arrange airlift, and support equipment. Besides the flying mission, the deployment allows some members of the Wolf Pack a good opportunity to see what Kadena has to offer during the Independence Day holiday. "We're going to be doing the same kind of work, but at a different location," said Senior Airman Jeremy Tarver, 80th FS engine mechanic. "I've never been to Kadena, and I look forward to hitting the beach, snorkeling, and seeing someplace new."

Bryson leads Logistics Group into future

By 1st Lt. Ben Frankenfield
8th Fighter Wing Public Affairs

Col. Gary Bryson assumed command of the 8th Logistics Group from Col. Timothy Bair during a change of command ceremony Tuesday in Hangar 3. Bair left Kunsan immediately after the change of command ceremony for an assignment at Hill AFB, Utah. Before coming to Kunsan, Bryson had attended the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. His assignment before Maxwell was as the 33rd Fighter Wing Operations Group and Logistics Group deputy commander at Eglin AFB, Fla. Bryson's previous logistics assignments and experience include chief of maintenance management, munitions acquisitions officer, Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps instructor, equipment management branch OIC, maintenance supervisor for two different aircraft squadrons, squadron maintenance officer, and equipment maintenance squadron commander. Byron entered the Air Force through Officer Training School as a munitions officer in 1979. During the ceremony, Col. Guy Dalbeck, 8th Fighter Wing commander, said, "Today's change of command is unique because it is the last time we'll turn over the flag of the 8th LG, because in a little over a month the flag of the 8th LG will be furled, and we'll replace it with that of the 8th Maintenance Group." The name change is due to the Air Force-wide wing reorganization occurring this summer. Bryson said he is looking forward to working on the wing reorganization and meeting members of the Wolf Pack.

Loring Club snags Air Force top honors

Kunsan wins best ‘collocated club award,’ gives credit to Wolf Pack

The Loring Club has been named the best collocated club in the Air Force. Although the club garnished the award, club general manager Don Montgomery said the Wolf Pack deserves the credit.

"Thanks Wolf Pack for your support," he said. "We are what we are because of you. "We're here to take care of the members, and this is one way of showing we've succeeded in that." Kunsan won best-collocated club at Pacific Air Forces level in May that pitted them against other Major Command-level winners to vie for the coveted Air Force-level award. "It's the pinnacle of satisfaction," Montgomery continued, "Getting recognized locally and PACAF level were nice, but this lets every one know that it's an outstanding club." "It's great for the staff because they do it seven-days-a-week," he said.

"It's a regular work habit and dedication to make sure it's successful." Club assistant manager Jim Boogaard agrees. "It's a prestigious award that demonstrates we're actually the best," he said. "It's a tough competition throughout the Air Force, and we've been telling them for so long we're the best. "It's especially tough here because you swap people every year," Boogaard said. "Without the support of the commander, command chief and the customers, you're not going to win the award." Montgomery said the secret to the club's success is the Wolf Pack patron's inputs and paying attention to detail through customer comments. Ms. Yi, Ok Son, club catering manager said providing a good service has always been the norm in the club, and it's her pleasure to serve the Loring Club patrons. "I never think about it, I just try to do the best I can to make customers happy because it's important for the services squadron," she said.

Officials review stop-loss

By Ssgt Wanda Williams-Lowe
8th Mission Support Squadron

Following the fourth review by Major Commands, Air Reserve Components, and functionals, the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Manpower and Reserve Affairs, approved the release from stop loss of all Air Force Specialty Codes, with the exception of 18 AFSCS listed below. This release applies to all officers and enlisted members, regardless of rank.

Active and reserve component members, not mobilized or deployed, who have an approved estimated time of separation, date of separation, or date of return may be allowed to separate or retire.

Servicing Military Personnel Flights will contact affected members to review their options and select a departure date.

Those personnel who are deployed or mobilized, to include reserve component members activated in-place, will be allowed to select a separation date 30 days after return from deployment.

Members released from stop loss should be afforded sufficient transition time, including time to complete necessary travel, complete medical evaluation if required, and use accrued leave if desired by the member.

AFSCS remaining on stop loss:

Officers: 11S, 12S and 31P.

Enlisted: 1A1X0, 1A1X1, 1C0X0, 1C0X1, 1C0X2, 1C1X0, 1C1X1, 1N0X0, 1N0X1, 1T2X0, 1T2X1, 2F0X0, 2F0X1, 3P0X0, 3P0X1.

We are developing guidance for the release of all personnel remaining on stop loss and expect to have that to the field within the next couple of weeks. Additionally, we are working closely with commanders to facilitate demobilization of reserve components.

Officers who have an established mandatory date of separation or retirement in accordance with Title 10, sections 631, 632, 633, 634, or 637 and enlisted members who have reached their high year tenure are released from stop loss.

CES A cuffs SFS, Wizards diffuse Killer Bee's sting Wednesday

By Staff Sgt. Jerome Baysmore
8th Fighter Wing Public Affairs

The 8th Civil Engineer Squadron "A" softball team cuffs the 8th Security Forces Squadron cops 12-6 Wednesday night-'nuff said. Wherever the cops hit, CES were waiting for them.

Wizards take on Killer Bees

The 8th Operations Support Squadron "Wizards" repelled the 8th Supply Squadron "Killer Bees" 8-7 in a game that came down to the last inning. The two teams began evenly matched holding each other scoreless in the first inning and racking up the outs faster than a pin during a WWE undercard match. In the top of the second, a Killer Bee got the first base hit and scored on a team-mate's double, but when Supply batter Nick tried to come in for the run, Wizards catcher Sonny was there waiting on him. Sonny made the tag, and retired the Killer Bees' offense. The Wizards brought their bats and quickly loaded the bases and ran the scoreboard up 3-2 over the Killer Bees. At bat, the Killer Bees were off to a good start until Wild Bill and Chris Adams struck out to switch sides in the fourth inning. Unforced Killer Bee errors from third base all the way to left field raised the scoreboard up 6-3 in favor of the Wizards until Supply tightened up the holes in their defense late in the inning. The two teams battled during their last at bats with Supply rallying four points to take the lead briefly in the eighth. The Wizards batted back to end the game 8-7 at the home plate.

Upcoming game for both teams:

Supply A looks toward taking on the 8th Communication Squadron Monday night. The two teams are closely matched with CS record at 3-4 and SUPS at 3-2. OSS looks to take on MSS A July 15. OSS sits at 2-1 with a slight advantage over the MSS A who are at 1-6.

Safety first...

Please don't:

Drop the free weights in the base fitness center. For example, if you dropped a dumbbell as little as six inches off the ground at the wrong angle, it can bend and break the dumbbell or loosen it enough to create a safety hazard.

It may be hard, but please try to help prevent an accident. There really is no excuse for dropping weights. Please hold onto the dumbbells and carry them over to the rack when finished.

Also, when lifting by yourself, use the safety collars.

Remember Wolf Pack if it breaks, we all pay for it, it may not be there next time you want to use it.

Safety tips provides by Staff Sgt. Tyler Wong, 8th Services Squadron
